

MOUNTAIN GAP BOOKS

Cleaning House

(Appalachian Elementals One)

A Contemporary Appalachian Fantasy

Award-winning Science Fiction and Fantasy author Jeanne G'Fellers' newest novel, Cleaning House, will be released August 1, 2018, and it's set in the Appalachian foothills of Northeast Tennessee.

About the Book

Centenary Rhodes is an old soul with a well-traveled name, but she doesn't know this yet.

Growing up in southern Appalachia wasn't easy, so Cent left home as soon as she could, but the post-collegiate happiness she'd expected has never occurred. She can't find a decent date, much less find that special someone and, after losing her job in a corporate downsize, she's struggling to meet her most basic needs. Her car has been repossessed, her bills are piling up, and her questionable North Chicago neighborhood is dangerous to navigate.

Returning home to Hare Creek, Tennessee, never crosses Cent's mind until her Great Aunt Tess contacts her with an offer she can't refuse. The family's southern Appalachian homestead must be sold, and Aunt Tess needs someone to clean it up. Cent will have access to Aunt Tess' garden and truck and can live on the homestead rent-free for as long as it takes. A part-time job is waiting for her as well.

It's a chance to solve some of Cent's financial woes, but will her return be enough when evil sets its sights on Embreeville Mountain and the homestead?

Cleaning House is a carefully woven Appalachian tapestry of granny magic, haints, elementals, and the fantastic diversity of the human condition – served with a side of fries and a quart of peach moonshine.

About the Author

Born and raised in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, Science Fiction and Fantasy author Jeanne G'Fellers' early memories include watching the original Star Trek series with her father and reading the books her librarian mother brought home. Jeanne's influences include author Anne McCaffrey, Ursula K. LeGuin, Octavia Butler, Isaac Asimov, and Frank Herbert.

Reviews

"The world-building here is fantastic. I like when I can uncover the secrets myself, through reading the story and getting to know the characters. For phenomenal writing, a compelling story, and characters who feel real, this gets 5 stars" – A. M. Leibowitz

"I love this author for her ability to create rich and multi-faceted worlds and characters." – Goodreads

Buy Links

Amazon | Amazon UK | Smashwords | Kobo | Barnes & Noble

Categories: Fantasy; Appalachian Fantasy; Contemporary Fantasy; Paranormal Fantasy; Strong Female Lead; Appalachia; Granny Magic; Job Loss; Elemental Magic; Ghosts; Appalachian Mountains; Northeast Tennessee; Multiple Lives; Reincarnation; Paranormal, Nonbinary, LGBT, Pansexual

Format: Print, Kindle, other formats

Pages: 304

Price: Print $16.95

eBook $2.99

ISBN: Print 9781732327702

eBook 9781732327719

Publication Date: August 2018

Stocklists: Amazon, Ingram, Barnes and Noble, Others

Author Contact:

jlgfellers@gmail.com

Facebook Goodreads

Author Website

Twitter: @jlgfellers

Publisher Contact:

Mountain Gap Books

107 East Courthouse Square #220

Jonesborough, TN 37659

publisher@mountaingapbooks.com

423-737-6865

Publisher Website